

BODY LANGUAGE IN THE WORKPLACE

The Employment Law Attorneys of Morris Laing welcome special guest, Dr. Rachel Messer, as she speaks on the interesting topic of body language.

Dr. Rachel Messer is an Assistant Professor of Psychology at Bethel College in North Newton, Kansas, specializing in language and cognition. She has studied nonverbals and body language and how these types of languages develop across the lifespan. Among other related topics, her presentation will cover "reading" nonverbals in professional settings, such as during hiring; how personal characteristics such as age, culture, and gender can affect body language use; and some common body language "red flags" that might warrant further consideration by hiring professionals. Examples to illustrate body language will be shown, and discussion/Q&A will be encouraged.
